

Sea Buckthorn Moisturising Cream

The berries of the sea buckthorn (Hippophae rhamnoides L.) are one of our most unusual native fruits, and one of those most rich in content. The pulp of the fruit contains a valuable oil which is characterised through the high content of palmitic acid and palmitoleic acid as well as carotinoids.

When combined with silk proteins, ceramides and other precious moisturising factors, the ingredients effectively combat premature skin aging, providing natural moisture and giving your skin a fresher, more youthful appearance. A low sun protection factor protects the skin against aggressive solar irradiation.
